

The Fife School District strives to make all activities and academics available without fees or costs. It looks at the 'whole student' and continues to offer programs and activities when other districts choose not to fund them. Music is one of the areas that has come under scrutiny as State funding for education dwindles. Even with the current legislative 'fix', adequate funding for schools is three years away and may not include funds for these types of programs. Research supports the important benefits of arts education for children.

The Fife High School Music Department is made up of approximately 120 students performing in up to five ensembles. At the beginning of each school year, students are made aware of the cost to participate in the Music Department. For each school year, the cost to participate ranges from $300 to $1000 depending upon whether the student participates in more than one ensemble. This provides a chilling effect on those students who are capable of participating and want to participate, but cannot financially. Participants that are unable to pay the accrued fees will have their diploma withheld.

The Fife School District is a low/moderate income school district supporting 48% of its students with free or reduced breakfasts and lunches.

This festival is established to support the students within the Fife High School Music Department. We will host high school jazz bands at Fife High School and jazz choirs at the Performing Arts Center within Columbia Junior High School. Invitations have been sent to high schools in Washington, Idaho, and Oregon.

The funds generated from sponsorships may not completely remove participation fees, but they will greatly reduce them. By supporting this request, students at Fife High School will be enabled to participate in music without needing to pay hundreds of dollars. This is beneficial to the student, the school, and the community. Music helps students in other areas of academics as well as life skills. This activity is beneficial for problem solving, creativity, and relationship building.

As we plan our 2nd annual festival for March 23, 2019, we hope to grow this festival in the years to come. Your support as a community member will send a strong message to the greater Fife community that music is an important part of life.
